— Sarah Mitchell reviewed BurgerCRM Restaurant

I have been coming to this burger place for almost a year now, and I have to say the experience has completely changed since they introduced their new management system.

Before, you would sometimes wait ages without anyone knowing the status of your order. Now, the staff always knows exactly what you ordered, remembers your preferences, and even sends you personalised offers on your birthday!

Last week I got a discount on my favourite Double Burger just because I am a loyal customer. That kind of personal touch is rare these days.

If you are looking for a place that genuinely values its customers, this is it. Highly recommended!
